EXPERIENCE

Metris Arts Consulting, Minneapolis MN & Easton PA (May 2009-present)

Metris Muckety-Muck- Founded and leads research and planning consultancy that seeks to improve and measure cultural vitality. Oversees Metris’ strategic direction and daily operations, supervises team, and provides high-level oversight for projects. Projects include:

- Culminating report and recommendations from a first-of-its-kind major city effort to confront the ways in which its racial history has/has not been memorialized through monuments through a comprehensive, community-focused engagement process
- Theory of change and literature review resource documents about place-based arts and culture, social cohesion, and equitable community wellbeing for a group of national foundations
- Theory of change and logic model for the National Endowment for the Arts’ creative placemaking grant program
- A series of reports and case studies commissioned by Local Initiatives Support Corporation that analyzes how arts and culture add to equitable community development efforts
- A planning process to better understand how NeighborWorks America’s network of nearly 250 affordable housing and community development organizations uses arts- and culture-based strategies and creative expression to pursue their goals, and the challenges they face doing this creative community development

- A report that highlights annual changes in the economic health of Minneapolis' creative sector
- A comprehensive field scan of the dance ecology and 20-year retrospective impact evaluation for the New England Foundation for the Arts' National Dance Project
- A case study on how an arts café fosters activism in Harare, Zimbabwe
- Developing an arts and cultural plan for a small city in greater Minnesota
- An evaluation of how five case study art spaces, developed by the nation's leading nonprofit arts developer, benefit in-house artists and arts organizations, their neighborhoods and regions
- A report that provides a window into California's nonprofit arts and cultural ecosystem using the California Cultural Data Project, the National Center for Charitable Statistics, the American Community Survey, and other sources

Project for Regional and Industrial Economics, Minneapolis MN (August 2007-May 2009)
